Honored for rescuing woman from burning apartment

A West Sacramento resident was lauded for heroism at last week's city council meeting.

Anthony Lilley, 32, had been driving by the Meadow Brook Apartments at Westacre Road on April 14 when he saw smoke on the patio's front patio. He ended up rescuing a 69-year old apartment resident.

"I saw the (apartment) door was open and there was smoke coming out," Lilley told the News-Ledger. "I parked and dialed 911 and went in and started yelling to see if anyone was in there. A woman came out from the back and collapsed. I put her arm around my shoulder and helped her out of the apartment."

"The smoke was down to about knee level," he said. "I could only see her legs as she was coming out from the back. I was coughing pretty bad for a few hours after that."

The woman's apartment and several others were badly damaged in the multiple-alarm fire.

Lilley said he hasn't had any contact with the woman he rescued since the fire.

Last Wednesday, Lilley received a proclamation from the West Sacramento City Council for his actions.

They're almost too nice to sit on.

A youth leadership group and its mentors have finished work on three mosaic benches in a shady spot near the back of Riverbank Elementary School. The functional artwork, as well as a new sunflower garden, are part of an effort to add some beauty to the aging campus, reported Bradly Palmer and Yaminah Bailey, young members of the West Sacramento Youth Resource Coalition. The sunflower garden includes sunflowers and potted flowers near the school's entrance.

The campus on Carrie Street was for many years the city's "Golden State Middle School."

Young members of the "Sactown Heroes Youth Leadership Team" got their hands dirty making the mosaics, under the supervision of Sal Galvan.

Remembering D-Day

This past Saturday, June 6th, marked the 65th anniversary of history's largest military amphibious assault. Code-named D-Day, it involved over 160,000 United States and Allied forces and after five days of fierce fighting, the Allies tenuously held a thin strip of France only about 80 miles long. Within a month, however, thanks to courageous acts too numerous to ever properly count or acknowledge, more than a million Americans, British and Canadian soldiers were safely ashore and moving steadily inland towards Nazi Germany.

Accompanying the men who so bravely breached Hitler's famed Atlantic wall were an armada of warships and thousands of landing craft and support ships. Mountains of military equipment and supplies were also needed and they soon followed, as did the final collapse of the German Reich less than a year later in the spring of 1945.

According to an article written by Ian Phillips of the Associated Press, "German gunners poured over 100,000 rounds a minute onto Omaha Beach over a two-hour period after the landings began on June 6th." He also wrote that "9,387 American soldiers are buried on the Normandy bluff; 14,000 others were exhumed and reburied back home at the wish of their families. Pristine white crosses and Stars of David now stretch across a 172-acre memorial just above Omaha Beach, the deadliest of the D-Day beach-heads."

By Daryl Fisher

Sixty-five years later, the Normandy beaches code-named Utah, Gold, Juno, Sword and Omaha are still remembered with reverence, especially by aging Americans whose generation made the terrible sacrifices necessary to finally bring World War Two to an end. And last Saturday, President Obama followed in the footsteps of past American presidents who have journeyed to the Normandy American Cemetery and Memorial to remember and thank those who died on what has often been referred to as 'the longest day'. In his remarks on a now peaceful bluff-top overlooking Omaha Beach, he reminded our nation once again of the "selflessness of a few" which helped bring peace to so many.

Of the more than 60,000 Americans who landed on the Normandy beaches, few were military professionals, and even fewer wanted to be there. They were farmers and barbers, railroad workers and auto mechanics, carpenters and teachers, and like all heroes, they weren't made in heaven, they were simply cornered some place on earth.

In "Hell on the Normandy Beaches", Ernie Pyle, the famous WWII war correspondent who himself would not live to see the end of the war, wrote: "By the time we got there the beaches had been taken and the fighting had moved a couple of miles inland. All that remained on the beach was some sniping and artillery fire, and the occasional startling blast of a mine going off and geysering brown sand into the air. That plus a gigantic and pitiful litter of wreckage along miles of shoreline, including submerged tanks, shell-shattered jeeps, and overturned boats.

"We had our toe hold, but there was another and more human litter. It extended in a thin little line, just like a high-water mark, for miles along the beach. This was the strewn personal gear, gear that would never be needed again by those who fought and died to give us our entrance into Europe.

"There in a jumbled row for miles on mile were soldiers' packs. There were socks and shoe polish, sewing kits, diaries, and Bibles. There were the latest letters from home, with the address on each one neatly razored out - one of the security precautions enforced before the boys embarked.

"There were toothbrushes and water-soaked packages of cigarettes, and snapshots of families back home staring up at you from the sand. There were wallets, metal mirrors, extra trousers, writing paper, air-mail envelopes, and bloody, abandoned shoes.

"The strong, swirling tides of the Normandy coast line shifted the contours of the sandy beach as they moved in and out. They carried soldiers' bodies out to sea, and later they returned them. They covered the corpses of heroes with sand, and then in their whims they uncovered them.

"It seemed to me a pure miracle that we ever took those beaches at all. In the special sector where I landed our troops faced such odds that our getting ashore was like me whipping Joe Louis down to a pulp."

But on that fateful long ago June day in 1944, ashore those incredible American soldiers came, and those who somehow lived through it are now our fathers and grandfathers, and they are slowly passing from us. But they leave behind a free and strong America, and their service and sacrifice can never be forgotten, or appreciated enough.

West Sacramento's city council last Wednesday honored the first group of Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) members. Sixteen community members attended a 24-hour training program sponsored by the fire department and designed to teach them how to help out in disasters and emergencies. Fourteen of the CERT members attended the council meeting and are pictured with firefighting staff at right.

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

Sacramento was the home for a few unique kinds of sports events last weekend starting with the Monarchs home opener, the River Cats game, Mixed Marital Arts, and the Collegiate rowing championships at Natoma Lake.

The Monarchs dropped their season opener 71-61 to the Seattle Storm in front of crowd of 14,824 at the Arco Arena on Saturday night and then the Arco filled the house (13,027) again for their WEC MMA event featuring Sacramento's own Urijah Faber. The gate for the MMA event was $818,415 not a bad night at the box office for the Arco Arena.

Faber, who was trying to recapture his World Extreme Cagefighting featherweight title from Mike Brown of Coconut Creek, Florida, broke his right hand in the second round of their five round contest and lost a unanimous decision. Brown had knockout Faber eight months ago in Florida taking the WEC title from the California Kid.

If violence isn't your thing, maybe you're into Intercollegiate Rowing. If so then you probably enjoyed the Washington Huskies win over the Cal Bears in the varsity eight in a 2,000 meter race in front of estimated 4,000 fans that attended the event.

NBA Playoffs

The Lakers won both of their home games including an overtime thriller to lead the series 2-0 and now forcing Orlando to show some Magic in Game 3 on their home court. The Magic are in tough because only three teams in 30 tries have comeback from a 2-0 deficit to win the NBA Finals. The Heat did it in 2006, Portland came back in 1977 and the Boston Celtics did it against the Lakers back in 1969.

The Magic have a good home record winning 32 while losing only 9 games during the regular season and are 7-2 during the playoffs at the Amway Arena. The Lakers have figured out how to shut down Super Man Dwight Howard by double teaming him and forcing the inexperienced center into bad shot selections and forced Orlando into 20 turnovers in game two. Going into game three on Tuesday night Howard has only one dunk!

On the other hand Kobe Bryant is having his way Orlando but if the Magic's Courtney Lee had made his potential game winning alley-oop layup as regulation time ended, we all would be sitting back ready to enjoy the NBA Finals tied at 1-1.

Diamond Notes

The Giants (29-27) are enjoying their road in which Randy Johnson won his 300th game and Cy-Young winner Tim Lincecum pitched another fine game winning his fifth game of the year. The G-Men are still desperate in finding another bat or someone to provide some punch in the middle of the order. I smell a trade very soon!

The A's (26-30) are on a roll with a seven game winning streak and look like they've solved their starting pitching problem with left-hander Josh Outman leading the way by posting his fourth win of the season. It's the A's longest winning streak since June 2006 but Oakland is still having problems drawing fans to their games.

Ex-River Cats pitcher Vince Mazzaro won his second game in an A's uniform shutting out the Orioles 3-0. The A's are using four rookies in their starting rotation which includes Vince and Brett Anderson, Trevor Cahill and Josh Outman.

The Giants will be on the road in Arizona until they return on Friday night to the Bay Area to host their cross town rival Oakland A's in weekend "Battle of the Bay" series.

River Cats

The River Cats (35-22), who continue their two game lead over Fresno, are being led by the bats of Eric Patterson and Cliff Pennington. The Cats new pitching star is left-hander Dana Eveland who pitched seven solid innings against Colorado Springs to record his third victory of the season.

The River Cats are home this week playing Colorado Springs followed by a weekend series against Tacoma.

Enjoy your day - see ya next week!

Regatta action

West Sacramento's RIVER CITY ROWING CLUB held its annual small-boat regatta on Sunday. The competition included single scullers -- like those pictured above -- and two-person boats. The athletes raced over a distance of one kilometer (about two-thirds of a mile) at the Port of West Sacramento. The event was organized by club member Joel Griffith -- pictured in the foreground, above.

Teenagers charged with shooting paintball guns at Bridgeway Lakes homes

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Four teenage boys were detained after several Southport houses were hit with paintballs Saturday night.

Sergeant Mark Tingley of the West Sacramento Police Department said that police received three calls from residents in the Bridgeway Lakes area about teens in two cars shooting paintball guns at homes.

"It looks like the first victim had them on video," said Tingley. "There was a dark two-door vehicle and a white four-door involved. As that report was put out, an officer was coming to help. He saw, sitting in front of the Tower Mart (on Jefferson Blvd.) two similar cars with kids hanging around them. There was paint on the cars. The kids denied being involved, but the officer saw a paintball gun through one of the windows."

It appeared that the juveniles had been using the guns on each others' vehicles as well as on houses.

"Four juveniles were cited," said Tingley. "All four were cited for possessing dangerous fireworks and for the discharge of projectiles from a vehicle. One was charged with possession of a billy club."

Three of the teens were 17 years old, he said. The fourth was 16. All were West Sacramento residents.

How many homes were hit?

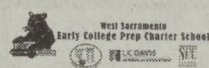

"They admitted to five, but we only had three people call in," Tingley told the News-Ledger.

Those calls came from Bridgeway Lakes Drive and Roaring Creek Street beginning at 10:43 p.m. on Saturday, he said.

City council cuts meeting schedule

To help trim costs during tough economic times, the West Sacramento City Council has trimmed the number of meetings it will hold each month.

For a number of years, the council has held regular meetings on the first three Wednesdays of each month.

That schedule will be trimmed to two meetings per month in most months from July to December -- generally the first and third Wednesdays of the month.

July will see only a "special meeting" on July 8 and a regular meeting on July 15.

In August, the council will hold regular meetings on the 5th and 19th.

The council will meet on Sept. 2 for a regular meeting, and Sept. 23 for a special meeting.

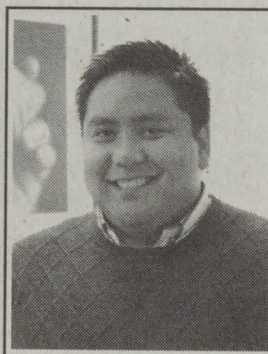

Other 2009 meeting dates include Oct. 7 & 14 (special), Nov. 4 & 18, and Dec. 2 & 16.

The public meetings are held at 7 p.m. at city hall, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, and can be viewed on cable TV.

No more public pools north of Southport

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The Washington Unified School District has done what it said it would do to save some money this summer: it has drained the swimming pools at the former River City High School and former Golden State Middle School campus, and filled them with dirt.

The district — suffering from a tight budget cycle — won't allow the pools be used for community swimming this summer. With these two pools closed, the only public pools left in West Sacramento will be those at the new city recreation center in Southport.

City parks director Bob Johnston acknowledged earlier this year that the impending pool closures would make it harder for kids in the north and central areas to spend a summer afternoon in a public pool. He gave the News-Ledger an update last week on what was being done to alleviate that problem.

"We're currently partnering with Yolo, and we've come up with a sort of a summer package deal," said the parks director. "It's actually for anyone in town. It's a summer swim pass and a bus pass to get you to the pool, for $49. It goes from June to August. It's about a $75 value

The swimming pools at Riverbank Elementary School (formerly Golden State Middle School) used to be available to the public during selected hours during the summer. They have until recently attracted trespassers, sneaking over the fence for an illicit swim. Now they're drained and filled with dirt. (News-Ledger photo) if you pay retail, and we do have a fee assistance program for kids who qualify."

How easy is it to get from, say, the Carrie Street neighborhood that used to have a school swimming pool to the new pools at the Rec Center in Southport?

"A couple of our staffers have hopped the bus to see how long it takes to get there," said Johnston. "It takes about 30 minutes out and 30 minutes back."

He acknowledges that the summer pass with Yolo is not an ideal solution.

"We looked at providing private bus service and other options, and they were cost-prohibitive. Ultimately, we'd like to have a pool back in the north end of town."

The city is in the early planning stages of putting a multi-sport recreational center in at Bryte Park — next to the former Golden State Middle School campus that is now operating as Riverbank

Elementary School.

"It would be a smaller version of what we're doing at the Recreation Center," said Johnston.

The park could be re-designed for ballfields, teen center, and possibly a skatepark as well as a pool. Probably, the heavy-use parts of the park will be moved farther away from the park's Todhunter Avenue neighbors than they are now.

Former city council member Greg Potnick used to live near the former high school campus, and now lives in the north area. He is unhappy that there are no local swimming pools in that part of town.

He commented on the school district's closure of the pools:

"Sadly, due to budget constraints, each elected body has to make some hard decisions," said Potnick. "They've foreclosed on some terrific recreational opportunities in the 'state streets' area (near the old high school campus) and in the north area. I was literally sickened when I was out on my walk and I saw the old middle school pool filled with dirt."

Potnick said he then visited the old high school campus — and found the pool filled and the basketball and tennis courts closed to the public.

"Sure, you can put a child on a bus to the Rec Center," he said. "But riding a bus can be somewhat intimidating for kids, and doesn't always work for young children."

Potnick had another criticism:

The school district had reported that the regional sewer pipeline project — the Lower Northwest Interceptor — had caused cracking in the old high school's tennis courts and swimming pool when a trench was dug through the campus. The district received $410,000 in a settlement from the sewage district, he said.

Has that money been shunted into other school district projects?

"The Washington Unified School District took the $410,000 from the sanitation district and apparently is going to channel it elsewhere," he said.

District representatives could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Defender Melton to retire

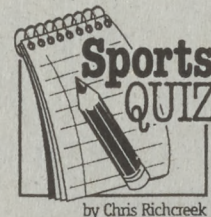

The Yolo County Board of Supervisors announced its intent to appoint Tracie Olson as the county's new Public Defender. Olson will replace Public Defender Barry Melton upon his retirement. Olson has held a position with the Yolo County's Public Defender's Office since 1998, most recently serving as Chief Deputy Public Defender.

"When you look in the dictionary under 'ultimate public defender' you find Barry Melton," said Yolo County Board of Supervisors Chair Mike McGowan. "Fortunately, he has served us well by mentoring his successor. On behalf of the Board of Supervisors, I look forward to working with Tracie Olson and with her office."

Olson graduated with honors from the University of California, Davis with a Bachelors of Science in managerial economics. She earned her juris doctorate degree from the University of Minnesota Law School and was inducted into the Order of the Coif, an honorary society reserved for those who graduate in the top ten percent of their class. Her internships were served at the University of Minnesota, Misdemeanor Criminal Defense Clinic, Hennepin County Public Defender's Office in Minneapolis, and South Texas Pro Bono Asylum Representation Project (ProBAR) in Harlingen, Texas.

"Tracie is a fine lawyer, a talented administrator, a deeply compassionate human being and a true public servant," said Barry Melton, Yolo County Public Defender. "I am confident that Yolo County will be well served by its new Public Defender."

Employee pinned

Two people are recovering after rental van accident

A U-Haul employee was hospitalized with a probable broken leg after being pinned between two rental trucks on Thursday morning. The accident occurred at 1750 West Capitol Ave.

Gary Fredericksen, Division Chief of the West Sacramento Fire Department, said the accident happened when a customer had a seizure while driving one of the vehicles.

"A guy driving a van into U-Haul had a seizure, and ran into another van while an employee was working there. She got trapped," he said.

Firefighters extricated the woman, who was later listed in "stable" condition.

The man was hospitalized too, and also later reported to be in "stable" condition, said Fredericksen.

In other recent fire department activity:

Firefighters responded to a roll-over accident on the morning of May 31, finding a car flipped over at Harbor Boulevard and Halyard Drive. One patient was hospitalized. The driver of a different vehicle was arrested by police for suspicion of driving under the influence.

A "possible drowning" was reported at 2 a.m. on June 2. Firefighters found an intoxicated man who was unable to pull himself up the steep bank of a levee at the Port of West Sacramento. They used a rescue basket and ropes to retrieve the man and get him to an ambulance.

THIRD ANNIVERSARY OF WASHINGTON IMPROVEMENT CLUB WILL BE CELEBRATED ON APRIL 10

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE ORGANIZATION WILL BE RECORDED AND GOOD SPEAKERS MAY BE INVITED FOR THE OCCASION

On March 31, 1914, the organization of the Washington Improvement Club was completed and since then the work accomplished through the organization has been of material benefit to the town.

Many affairs of municipal importance have been promoted and many little mistakes have been corrected which would not otherwise have been done had there been no such organization.

There still remain many objects to be accomplished and many formidable questions to be settled but without the united support of all the taxpayers those things cannot be done.

Some few faithful souls have continuously worked for the benefit of the club and the benefit of the community. They need more encouragement. More of the property owners should be active because the club is of one mind, a mind that contemplates, not the advancement of any individual, but the general good of all the people.

The affair that will mark the third anniversary of the organization of the club will be modest. A quiet feed, with some music and other entertainment will be held on the evening of April 10th, and any person desiring to become a member of the club will be welcomed on that occasion.

At the meeting last Tuesday night no returns had been received from Senator Duncan and Assemblyman Tarke concerning the protest registered by the club against the dissolution of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Drainage District, but it was known to all the members that both these representatives were proponents of the dissolution and consequently would take but little notice of the protest.

A supply of gas for lighting and heating purposes is anticipated by the club because workmen of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company have been busy along the waterfront at the foot of Y street, evidently preparing to extend the main across the bottom of the Sacramento River.

Complaint was again made that stock are being staked out in vacant lots and close to the railroad tracks. Should these stock become loose there is danger of accidents with the probability that the owners will be the sufferers.

A letter of sympathy was ordered sent to Mrs. D. W. Knox on the death of her husband, which occurred a few days ago.

A communication was received from Senator Duncan asking the advice of his constituents relative to a bill now before the State Legislature which requires women to serve on juries like men when called. As a body the club refused to make answer but the ladies present were requested to communicate their individual ideas to the Senator.

and Mary streets, an American flag floats to the breeze all the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Swannut of San Francisco spent last Sunday at the Huber home, returning to the bay city early Monday morning.

Relatives of the late David and Mrs. Knox who were in Washington last Tuesday to attend the funeral, have returned to their homes, among them being Mr. and Mrs. A. Rogers of Alameda, Mrs. T. Johnson and Mrs. G. McLaughlin of San Francisco and M. C. Serber of Alameda.

Mrs. M. Stucki has received word from her husband who deserted her about a year ago, leaving her to support three young children. He is located at Youngstown, Ohio, and the authorities have been placed on his trail.

The masquerade ball planned for April 14th by several young ladies of Washington promises to be a most enjoyable affair and a financial success in addition. Many young women are preparing novel costumes and many young men are getting up original ones. There is considerable rivalry because the prizes to be offered are very substantial.

A dangerous runaway took place yesterday afternoon, when a heavy team of horses with an empty wagon ran from in front of the grocery store. The driver had stepped in to get some tobacco and in some way the team became frightened. West along the railroad track they went to Fifth where they crossed and were stopped by an automobile driver near Eighth street. Four horses were attached to the rear end of the wagon and they, too, did some running. Neither horses or harness were damaged in the runaway.

Frank Huber has made considerable improvement to his Jersey Dairy plant lately, having installed the latest pasteurizer and the most sanitary and modern appliances. Huber is now credited with serving only Grade A milk by the health authorities and as a consequence he is enjoying an increase in trade in Washington and Sacramento.

Mrs. Annie Richeson an daughter of Redding, who have been visiting with relatives during the past several days will remain during the ensuing week.

E. H. Edwards of Fair Oaks spent a few days of the past week at the Bennetts home.

Mrs. Carrie Thielgen returned last Tuesday to San Francisco after a week's visit with her mother, Mrs. Markey.

Curtis Hoffman returned home last Monday after spending a week in San Francisco.

H. Stuber has purchased a houseboat where he will live with his family in future.

Joe Williams, who was at Vorden for a couple of weeks, returned for a few days to Washington, but will return for the opening of the canning season in the asparagus district next week.

James Lear is at home from Wheatland after having spent several days at work in that locality.

Mrs. A. W. Black of San Francisco was a visitor at the Wm. Wilson home during the past few days. She came up for the Knox funeral and may remain during the coming week.

CANDIDATES FOR FIRE TRUSTEES ARE LAGGING

The election to be held Monday, April 2, for three trustees to conduct the affairs of the fire department is not at all a spirited one.

During the past three years Dave Barry, Ray Peek and F. R. Wilson have acted in the position and did so with credit to themselves and the town.

Lately, Peek took unto himself a wife and moved to Sacramento, since which time he has been a member of the department only in name.

Wilson has not been over active, thus throwing nearly all the work on the shoulders of Dave Barry.

Barry will consent to election but is not over anxious to act because of his experience during the past year.

Two other young men who are interested in the welfare of the town should step into the breach, because the services are badly needed and even though there is no remuneration there is a least a certain amount of pride which attaches itself to the position and which helps to make a young man feel proud of himself.

The polls will open at 12 o'clock next Monday and remain open until six.

THE TAXPAYERS OF WASHINGTON UNANIMOUSLY DECIDE TO OPPOSE ASSESSMENT FOR WEIR DAMAGE

THEY BELIEVE THE AMOUNT ASKED TO BE UNJUST, UNWARRANTED, EXORBITANT AND UNDESERVING

At a mass meeting of the taxpayers of Washington held in the Town Hall Thursday evening, March 29th, it was unanimously decided that the imposition of $987.23 on the levee district for damage to a weir at Rocky Point be refused payment.

And further it was decided that the levee trustees must communicate this decision to the War Department, advising that all the damage done the weir was not caused by the dredger that did the work of raising and strengthening the levees.

And further, it was decided that, if it became necessary, the levee district would fight the tax with all due process of law, even to the Supreme Court of the United States.

And further it was decided that great damage had been done the town of Washington by the construction of weirs that had purposely been built by the federal engineers and which weirs had for their purpose the diversion of the natural deep water channel of the Sacramento River to the Sacramento shore, thus ruining the water front of the town of Washington.

The mass meeting had been called by the levee trustees following receipt of the attached communication:

WAR DEPARTMENT
3rd San Francisco District Engineer
Office, United States Army, and
California Debris Commission.
San Francisco, California.
January 3, 1917.

The Trustees,
Washington Levee District,
Broderick, California.

Gentlemen:
Having reference to previous correspondence on the subject of damage to the government wing dam in the Sacramento River at Rocky Point, near Broderick, Calif., I enclose an itemized statement of cost of repairing same and request that you give the matter your earliest consideration.

The circumstances surrounding this case have been discussed by this office with you and your attorneys quite thoroughly, you were afforded an opportunity to make the necessary repairs at your own expense, and when it became apparent that you did not choose to take such action, the United States, by reason of the lateness of the season and the necessity for prompt action in the premises, proceeded to repair the wing dam at its own expense, as it is authorized by law to do in such cases.

It is requested that reimbursement of the amount, $987.28, be made by you without delay.

Very respectfully,
L. H. RAND,
Major, Corps of Engineers.

1 Inclosure.
Itemized statement of cost to United States of repairing wing dam in Sacramento River at Rocky Point, near Broderick, Calif., damaged by illegal dredging:

Inside Part:
528 linear feet of piling @ 17 1/2 c per ft. $ 92.40
Use of piledriver and crew, 2 1/2 days @ $30 per day 75.00

336 ft., B. M., of lumber @ $17.50 per M. 5.88
4 men, 1 day's digging out of sand, @ $2.50 10.00

3 men, 1 day, placing rock on sand bar 7.50
1 team and driver, 2 days, @ $5.00 per day 10.00
2 men, 1/2 day, repairing broken cross pieces, etc. 2.50
20 lbs. spikes @ $3.70 per 100 .74
1 bbl. fuel oil 1.00
68.72 tons of rock @ $2.49 per ton 171.11
Superintendent, 2 1/2 days @ $4.80 per day 12.00
$524.13

Outside End:
110 linear feet of piling @ 17 1/2 c per foot 19.25
453 feet, B. M., of lumber @ $17.50 per M. 7.93
22 lbs. spikes @ $3.70 per 100 .81
Use of piledriver and crew, 1 1/2 days @ $30 per day 45.00
4 men, 6 hours, putting in 2x8s 7.50
325 bales of brush @ 32c per bale 104.00
109.02 tons of rock @ $2.49 per ton 271.46
Superintendent, 1 1/2 days @ $4.80 per day 7.20
$463.15

Total cost $987.28

The taxpayers of Washington were impelled to the above action for several reasons:

Neither they nor the levee trustees hired the dredger that did the damage.

Neither they nor the levee trustees paid for the work of raising or strengthening the levee.

Even during the progress of the work of raising the levee the captain of the dredger was warned by the levee trustees not to damage the weir.

Rocky Point being considered a dangerous place during flood season the people had the right to tear out anything and everything to protect themselves from flood.

And in the presence and within the sight of several people the damage, done to the outer end of the weir was not caused by the dredger but was caused by the flood waters of the Sacramento River — natural causes.

It was explained last night that the dredger was hired by Eli Fourness, J. Harbinson and W. E. M. Beardslee, none of them trustees of the Washington Levee District.

It was explained also that the damage to the outside end of the weir was done before the dredger went to work, therefore relieving everyone for that damage.

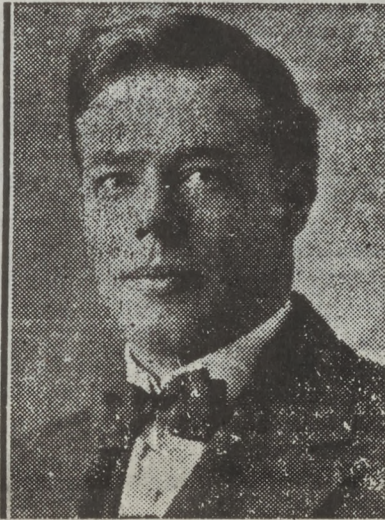

The money paid the Ryer Island Dredger Company for the use of its dredger was raised as follows:

Yolo County $1,000
Reclamation District 900 1,000
Reclamation District 537 1,000
Reclamation District 811 1,000
Southern Pacific Company 1,000

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Congratulations!

The definition of honor roll is: n. a list of people worthy of honor, esp. a list of students who have earned excellent grades; roster of best students who have excellent grades or a high grade point average.

Can you tell me then why these high achieving 8th grade graduate students of Westmore Oaks North Elementary School were not honored at their own graduation ceremony?

We just want to personally congratulate all the honor roll students at Westmore North. Many of you have attended school at Westmore since kindergarten and have been high achieving students with excellent conduct for nine years! Great job!

We parents are very proud of you and your personal hard work and achievement! Congratulations!

Thanks, Trinity

This past Saturday, West Sacramento's Trinity Presbyterian Church held a "Day of Fun" for local children out on the front lawn of the church. I decided to take my four-year old grandson over to check it out. And what a great time he had! Among other things, he bounced all over the place in one of the three giant bounce houses that had been erected, played each and every one of the games that had been set up (winning a couple of toy snakes he loves), got a West Sacramento Police Department paper badge stuck on his chest, and just before we left, he washed down a yummy hot dog with some tasty pink lemonade.

And all of it was free, and everywhere I looked, lots of other West Sac kids were having just as much fun! Plus all the volunteers who were putting on the Day of Fun were extremely kind and thoughtful to my grandson as he raced from one activity to the next.

It events like this that remind me of what a great little town I live in and I just wanted to say thanks to Trinity for making a few hours last Saturday such a fun time for so many West Sac kids.

Ideas for fixing the budget

To overhaul the state budget, let's challenge Proposition 13 in court, support President Obama's goal to make offshore corporations pay their fair share of taxes, audit fewer self-prepared state tax returns and start auditing all professionally-prepared tax returns, overhaul the costly "over-imprisonment" system and focus on crime prevention, and create a lobbying department so the public knows who gives how much to each elected and appointed official.

WILLIAM A. LOWELL
West Sacramento

GUEST COMMENTARY:

State shouldn't borrow from local governments to pay the bills

(The following is an open letter to California Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger)

The recently proposed option brought forward by the Department of Finance to suspend Proposition 1A (2004) and borrow billions from local governments is extremely concerning to each of our organizations and members. We have appreciated your continued support in standing by the protection of local revenues that support critical services to all Californians and want to reiterate in the strongest possible terms our continued joint opposition to any "borrowing" of revenues from cities, counties and special districts.

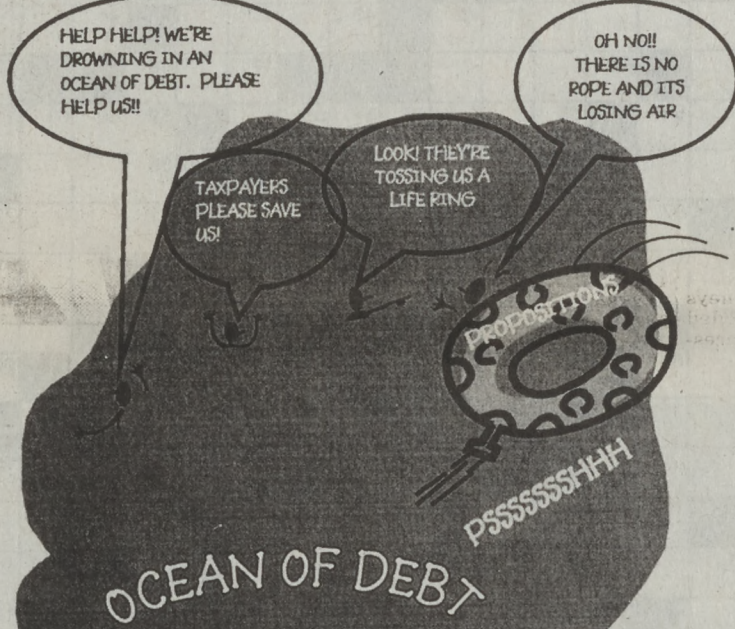

In these difficult economic times, local governments in California are also being faced with making tough decisions due to declining revenues and, in many cases, significant budget shortfalls that are already affecting the ability to provide essential services. Shifting additional resources intended for local use through a borrowing will drastically compound the impacts at the local level forcing unprecedented budget and service cuts which will result in further personnel reductions and impacts to public safety among many other areas.

While we understand that decisions have to be made, they should be responsible decisions. Borrowing vital funding from local governments to help solve the state's budget deficit is a fiscally irresponsible solution that does nothing to address the structural budget problems. Furthermore, a suspension of Proposition 1A is not a long term solution and will cost the state even more in the long run, as the borrowed money must be paid back within three years with interest.

Having stood by us in 2004 when Proposition 1A was passed with nearly 84 percent approval, you understand the importance voters have placed on protecting local government services and keeping those revenues local. We respectfully request your continued support to reject any proposal to borrow revenues from cities, counties and special districts now and in the future.

Thank you for your hard work on behalf of the people of California.
JUDITH MITCHELL, President, League of California Cities
GARY WYATT, President, California State Association of Counties

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEW BY DNA SMITH

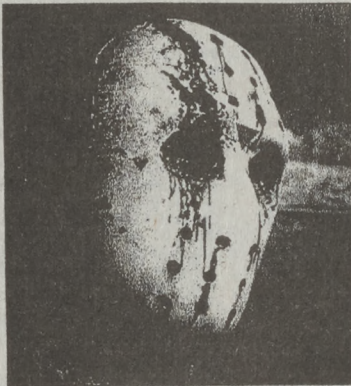

Man, is it a weird week for DVD releases. There's mostly just schlock and kitsch, but then — out of the blue — we also see the release of an iconic, art-house classic.

"Friday the 13th" (Extended Killer Cut) — The indestructible Jason Voorhees dons the goalie mask and ax once again in this reboot of the slasher series that also cannot die. The plot is basically the same as the other 60 "Friday the 13th" movies: A bunch of clueless kids scamper around Crystal Lake campground looking for drugs and sex only to find a savage death at the hands of a psychopathic brute.

"Transformers: The Complete First Season" (25th Anniversary Edition) — If you're thinking this is just a shameless attempt to cash in on the new Transformers movie, buy yourself a cigar, pilgrim. All the episodes from the 1984 cartoon TV show are included on three discs, plus a documentary on how the show was created, some of the original Hasbro commercials and ... a magnet. Seriously? A magnet? If you really want fanboys to buy this box set, toss in a 90-minute video of Megan Fox in a schoolgirl outfit jumping on a trampoline.

"The Seventh Seal" (Criterion Collection) — Ingmar Bergman's classic story of a knight (Max Von Sydow) who returns home from the Crusades and plays a game of chess with Death, gets the Criterion treatment in this two-disc special edition. The first disc contains the remastered film (with an option to view in Swedish with English subtitles or the English-dubbed version) introduced by Bergman. There also is a commentary track by Peter Cowie, an expert on Bergman's films. The second disc is loaded with featurettes, including "Bergman 101," a primer on the works of the director, interviews with Max Von Sydow, a tribute by Woody Allen and more.

Jason

"Everwood" The Complete Second Season
"The Three Stooges Collection" Vol. 6: 1949-1951

READERS: It's time for another Trivia Contest. This time I'll be testing your John Wayne knowledge. The good folks at Batjac Productions and Paramount have provided me with copies of The Duke's latest DVD collections — remastered and many of them with special features and commentaries — which I will give away to nine lucky readers. I will randomly draw nine names from all the correct trivia-question submissions, and each will receive one John Wayne DVD collection — either "The John Wayne Century Collection," "The John Wayne Western Collection" or "The John Wayne Adventure Collection." (I will randomly choose which winners get which DVD collections.)

All you have to do is correctly answer this question: From which John Wayne film did the name of his production company, Batjac, come from? Send your answers by e-mail to letters@cindyelavsky.com or by mail mail to Cindy Elavsky, King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. All entries must be received/postmarked by July 10. One contest entry per household. For those who want their John Wayne collections now (these make perfect Father's Day gifts!), go to JohnWayneOnDVD.com or your local retailer to see descriptions of each of the collections, and to purchase your own.

Q. My husband insists that "The Dark Knight" is the last film that Heath Ledger made before he died. I say he still has another one coming out. Who is right? — Farrah D., via e-mail

A. You are correct on this one. Heath Ledger, who died of an accidental prescription-drug overdose in January 2008, was filming Terry Gilliam's latest offering, "The Imaginarium of Doctor Parnassus." The fantasy movie has sequences that take place in the "real" world and some in an "otherworldly" setting. Heath had completed filming the real-world portions of the movie before his death. His character is then supposed to take three trips into the imaginary world, which Heath did not get to film. Actors

Johnny Depp, Jude Law and Colin Farrell stepped into the roles of Heath's "fantasy" characters so the completed film could be released.

Q. I keep hearing rumors that Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie have broken up. If anything, for the sake of all those children, I hope it's not true. — Margaret M., Wilmington, Ohio

John Wayne

A. Brad and Angie were very much together last month at the Cannes Film Festival, where Brad was promoting his movie, "Inglourious Basterds." Brad told reporters: "I am in love, and I have the most beautiful family. What else can a guy want? I am the happiest man ever."

Q. Will NBC's "Medium" be back next year? — Genie H., via e-mail

A. NBC decided not to renew the paranormal drama, but CBS was quick to scoop it up. And you won't have to wait until January for new episodes, as was its schedule with NBC. "Medium" will begin airing on CBS this fall.

Have a question for Cindy? E-mail her at letters@cindyelavsky.com, or write to her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Blueberry Pancakes

This Father's Day, treat Dad to a stack of these yummy berry flapjacks topped with warm blueberry sauce.

- 2 tablespoons water
- 1/2 teaspoon cornstarch
- 3 1/2 cups blueberries
- 5 tablespoons sugar
- 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 3/4 cups buttermilk
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 2 large eggs

1. Preheat oven to 250 F. Place cookie sheet in oven.
2. Prepare blueberry sauce: In 1-quart saucepan, combine water, cornstarch, 1 1/2 cups blueberries and 2 tablespoons sugar, and heat to boiling over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Boil 1 to 2 minutes or until berries burst.
3. Remove from heat; stir in lemon juice.

4. Prepare pancakes: In large bowl, combine flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and remaining sugar. Stir in buttermilk, butter and eggs just until flour mixture is moistened. Stir in remaining berries.

5. Lightly grease griddle or non-stick 12-inch skillet; heat over medium heat until very hot.

6. Drop batter by 1/4 cups onto hot griddle, spreading batter gently to make 4-inch rounds. Cook pancakes 2 to 3 minutes. (Pancakes are ready to turn when batter begins to set, bubbles start to burst and edges look dry.)

7. Turn pancakes over, using a wide spatula. Cook 1 to 2 minutes longer, until puffy and undersides are a rich golden brown. Transfer pancakes to cookie sheet in oven; keep warm.

8. Repeat with remaining batter, greasing griddle if needed. Serve pancakes with blueberry sauce.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 15, 1215, following a revolt by the English nobility against his rule, King John puts his royal seal on the Magna Carta, or "Great Charter," the cornerstone in the development of democratic England by later generations. Four original copies of the Magna Carta exist: one in Lincoln Cathedral, one in Salisbury Cathedral and two in the British Museum.

• On June 17, 1885, the Statue of Liberty, a gift from the people of France, arrives in New York City's harbor. The last rivet of the monument was fitted on October 28, 1886, during a dedication presided over by U.S. President Grover Cleveland. In 1924, the Statue of Liberty was made a national monument.

• On June 19, 1905, the world's first nickelodeon, showing a silent film called "The Great Train Robbery," opens in Pittsburgh. The storefront theater boasted 96 seats and charged 5 cents. Nickelodeons typically featured live vaudeville acts as well as short films.

• On June 18, 1942, recording artist Paul McCartney is born in Liverpool, England. McCartney, John Lennon and George Harrison played together under several different names, and with assorted members, until 1960, when they adopted the name the Beatles. Ringo Starr joined the group in 1962.

• On June 16, 1961, Rudolf Nureyev, the young star of the Soviet Union's Kirov Opera Ballet Company, defects during a stopover in Paris. The high-profile defection was a blow to Soviet prestige. During the next 30 years, Nureyev danced with England's Royal Ballet and the American Ballet Theatre.

• On June 20, 1979, President Jimmy Carter and first lady Rosalynn Carter climb to the White House roof to celebrate the installation of solar-energy panels there. In 1986, President Ronald Reagan had the solar panels removed and put into a federal storage facility.

• On June 21, 1985, "Cocoon" opens, starring Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy. Cronyn and Tandy had both been successful screen and stage actors for more than 50 years. Married in 1942, they appeared in movies together until Tandy's death in 1994, at age 87.

• It was expatriate British novelist Lawrence Durrell who made the following observation: "There are only three things to be done with a woman: You can love her, suffer for her or turn her into literature."

• Have you ever known anyone who engaged in verbalolary? In this era of reality TV and instant everything, it's not likely. "Verbalolary" is the worship of words.

• Every year, GMAC conducts its National Drivers Test, administered by telephone to drivers in all 50 states. Respondents are asked questions pulled from official driver license exams across the country. This year's results are in, and they're not encouraging. More than a quarter of those surveyed — 28.1 percent — completely failed the test. Perhaps unsurprisingly, people in New York scored the worst, while drivers aged 18 to 24 were more likely to fail than those in other age groups. Drivers in Idaho and Wisconsin tied for first place. Interestingly, more men than women passed, and drivers in the South had the highest rate of failure.

Bangkok Days: A Sojourn in the Capital of Pleasure
By Lawrence Osborne
(Farrar, Straus & Giroux, $25)
Reviewed by Katy B. Olson

Author and adventurer Lawrence Osborne finds himself among scamps and scoundrels, monks and prostitutes, as he makes his way through Bangkok's labyrinthine days and hazy nights. Visiting and revisiting the city over the years to satisfy not only his yen for adventure, but also to make the most of his few dollars, his exploits and his encounters with other hot-blooded men on the lam reveal both the volatility and tranquility of a foreigner's Bangkok experience.

Underneath the city's constant, hovering haze, against the backdrop of wide-eyed prostitutes and neon-lit girly bars, memoirist Osborne explores the ins and outs of a seemingly contradictory metropolis where entrenched Buddhism and a deep-rooted pursuit of pleasure don't collide, but comfortably coexist. The frankness shared by the Thais and pursued by foreign escapees forms the basis of the city's attraction and mystery. Experiencing the shared vices and accompanying neuroses of fellow Western ex-pats, the author explores what it means to be what the Thai call a "farang," a foreigner, an outsider in a culture whose definitions of pleasure and sin are quite different from the West's.

Even more than relentless gratification, though, Osborne finds that Bangkok provides a primitive rawness, a pure, unpretentious way of life that has been scrubbed from other urban hubs like New York, removed from the places that daring people most want to escape. He says, "I'm not sure I have much talent, and if I did have some, I wouldn't go around talking about it. ... I think I came here to escape exactly that."

A city that is perhaps less intricate than the untamed loners who are so drawn to it, Osborne's "Bangkok Days" is a living, breathing exploration of one of the world's most alluring, most mysterious places, and a full-color portrait of the souls who inhabit it.

Tea did not arrive in Japan until the ninth century and did not become popular until the 12th century.

Go the Whole Hog for Father's Day

Father's Day is coming soon, but please, step away from the ties, cologne and socks at the department store. The perfect Father's Day gift for the man who has everything — or just an abundance of ties, cologne and socks — can be found on the Internet. Online shopping provides a vast array of unique and unusual items. Using the computer also makes it easy to find the perfect gift at the perfect price.

It appears from my online searches that food club memberships are popular gifts. Rocco Loosbrock is president and "Boss Hog" of the Web site Bacon Freak (www.baconfreak.com). His bacon comes from hogs that are raised on farms in Kentucky. The bacon slabs are hand cut and cured using hickory fires to smoke the meat, ensuring that each piece of bacon is of the highest quality. The slices of bacon are individually hand-rubbed with various flavors ranging from apple cinnamon, brown sugar and vanilla bourbon to Cajun and sundried tomato to ensure that you get a burst of flavor in every bite.

The Bacon Freak Web site provides everything from gourmet bacon to bacon-flavored salt (with no bacon added) and T-shirts that say "Bacon Is Meat Candy." Since my father, Howard Shelf, is a carnivore and a huge fan of ham and bacon, membership in the Bacon Freak Club is hands-down the perfect gift for Father's Day.

BACON-WRAPPED GARLIC BAKED POTATOES

These wonderful potatoes also can be prepared on the grill. Wrap the bacon-wrapped potatoes in foil and place them in the cooler area of the grill around the outer edge for about 50 to 60 minutes or until the potatoes are tender and the bacon is crisp.

- 4 medium baking potatoes, washed, halved lengthwise
- 8 cloves of garlic, chopped
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper

bacon is crispy. Discard the toothpicks. Serve with butter, sour cream and shredded cheddar cheese, if desired.

Pudding Treats

You can let the kids put together these Black-Bottom Crunch Pudding Treats for Father's Day. It is easy for them and you, and great-tasting for Dad.

- 8 Murray's sugar-free Fudge Dipped Wafers
- 2 tablespoons chopped pecans
- 1 (4-serving) package Jell-O

8 bacon strips

Pre-heat the oven to 325 F. Lightly spray a baking pan with cooking spray or coat it with vegetable oil. Place four of the potato halves, cut side up on the pan. Layer the garlic and the onion slices on the cut side of the potato halves. Sprinkle the potatoes with the salt and pepper. Top each potato with the other potato half. Wrap each potato with two bacon strips and secure the strips with toothpicks. Bake the potatoes, uncovered, for 1 hour and 20 minutes or until the potato is tender when pierced with a fork and the

Huevos Rancheros

Spice up Father's Day brunch with these zesty Huevos Rancheros.

- 1 can (19-ounce) black beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 1/4 cups (about 11 ounces) mild or medium-hot salsa
- 4 large eggs
- 3 ounces shredded Mexican cheese blend
- 3/4 cup chopped fresh cilantro or parsley leaves, for garnish
- Warm flour tortillas (optional)

1. In 10-inch skillet, mix black beans, salsa and 1/4 cup water. Heat to boiling over high heat, stirring frequently.

2. Break eggs, one at a time, into custard cup and slip into skillet on top of bean mixture. Reduce heat to medium-low; cover skillet and simmer 5 minutes or until whites are completely set and yolks begin to thicken or until eggs are cooked to desired firmness.

3. To serve, sprinkle bean mixture and eggs with shredded cheese. Garnish with chopped cilantro. Serve with warm tortillas if you like. Serves 4.
